A NEW HAWAIIAN DIRECTORY.

J. C. Lane, who was here in 1888 and made a Directory of the Kingdom of Hawaii, returned by the Australia on the same mission. The new work will contain a more complete description of the places of interest in all the Islands, how tourists may reach them, etc., besides a carefully prepared list of all adults, with their occupation, place of business and residence. The directory will have a large circulation in the States and will assist in inducing people to visit the islands.

BLITHE INACCURACY.

Miss Nelly Bly, the round-theworldist, was very popular with the few who knew her during her short stay at Hongkong recently, but she was a failure as far as accuracy went. This is the way she shows us up to the world: In Hongkong I rode about the city in a sedan chair with four coolies carrying it and a Chinese guide. I was particularly struck with the court-house and jail of the city. In front of the jail there was a big fantan game running, and inside was an opium smoking place. The peculiarity of the jail is that they don't close the doors.' Hi-yah!-[Hongkong Telegraph.

ANXIETY FOR MR. ARUNDEL.

Rev. S. E. Bishop received a let-ter from Mr. J. T. Arundel, the English capitalist well-known here, "hursday Island, Torres Straits, Feb. 27. In the letter Mr. Arundel says: "I arrived here the day before yesterday and am waiting for the British India steamer Quetta due to-morrow to take me to Batavia and possibly Singapore."

At 9 o'clock at night on the "tomerrow" mentioned, the Quetta struck a sunken rock and immediately sank, about 20 miles from Thursday Island. Many lives were lost and some survivors reached Thursday Island. The accounts in the Sydney papers would indicate that the steamer had not been at Thursday Island before the disaster. Mr. Bishop's letter has caused much anxiety among Mr. Arundel's many friends here. Besides the foregoing inference from the accounts, additional assurance of Mr. Arundel's safety is found in the absence of his name from the lists of both drowned and survivors. Latest accounts represent 123 persons missing out of 282 who were on
